

Webcom wins the Bronze prize at the Canadian Printing Awards

Toronto, November 13th, 2014 – Webcom was awarded the Bronze prize in the Digital Printing Category for Books at the Canadian Printing Awards.

Hosted by PrintAction Magazine, the Canadian Printing Awards celebrates the best in Canadian printing, environmental implementation, and industry achievement. Over 200 entries were submitted from print companies across Canada.

Webcom's winning entry was a four-colour project printed on a HP T300 digital inkjet web press. The Canadian Printing Awards prize is a great addition to Webcom's award collection and an affirmation of the quality of digital inkjet printing.

“Investing in best in class digital inkjet technology was the right decision to make to support our publisher's evolving needs,” says Mike Collinge, Webcom's President and CEO. “This award confirms what our publisher partners already know that Webcom's implementation of HP's digital inkjet technology results in high quality book manufacturing”.

The award was presented to Webcom's Purchasing & Inventory Control Manager, Misha Miladinovich, at the Canadian Printing Awards Gala held on November 6th in Toronto.
